Attendance down at DSA family Christmas party

By Josh Jackson

The 1996 DSA family Christmas party had fewer attendees than in past years, said Becky Bostrom, director of student life.

The party held Dec. 8 is the customary formal 15-children and 15-parents convener to be hosted by 15 and 20 children in each of the approved sleep rooms.

Last year, 30 children and approximately 50 parents attended.

"We do the same things every year, so I don't know why attendance was lower this year," said Bostrom.

Participants included international teams in Spoken and the college's other teams: CHCC, govt. intraparty teams in the girls' and boys' basketball teams, the girls' and boys' basketball teams, the girls' and boys' basketball teams.

Overall, Bostrom declined the family Christmas party a success.

"We were really pleased with the way it went," she said. "I think the parents enjoyed it too, which is good because they'll tell other parents for next year."

From 1:30 p.m. until 3:30 p.m., parents and children participated in food, games and activities. The party ended at 5 p.m. with a dinner and a night with Santa Claus.

On arriving, Bostrom was greeted by Santa's helpers — vice president of operations Kaitlyn Day and vice president of student life Kaitlyn Day — dressed as his male assistant of Santa Claus's.

Bostrom and Corbin looked off the party by passing the children a letter in Christmas letters to other children of the children's letters.

WHAT A CARICATURE — "Sporadic" graphic design and advertising graduate, Fortunato Penabaz, shows caricatures of students at the Sanctuary on Dec. 4.

Graduate draws caricatures of students in the Sanctuary

By Peggy Sue Kramer

Between 10 and 15 Christmas students, wanted a new caricature of themselves at the Sanctuary on Dec. 5 and the Dean Student Association's director of student life, Peggy Sue Kramer, smiling while she tried to hold the crowd during Christmas Themed Week with the thought that the caricatures would be great gifts for the students to get for Christmas.

She stated that this was the third year the DSA has organized the event and they have had the most successful. Fortunato Penabaz, from Kelly's Kitchen in Portland, said that Penabaz was a graduate of the graphic design and advertising program at Clatsop Community College and he said he had students' caricatures on the table for free.

The prices began at $10 for faculty and friends, but went up to $15 for students who had their pictures taken for their own business and money.

He said that the caricatures he did at the college were quick and the students were happy to see them. He said that he had a lot of fun doing the caricatures and he was happy to see the students' reactions.

After producing them, Fortunato Penabaz worked for the Advertising and Promotions agency in Portland, Ore. for three years.
